DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Located in the southwest corner of Deer Park, Garrett County, Pennington Cottage stands on the northwesterly side of Deer Park Hotel Road, east of the intersection of Deer Park Hotel Avenue.

Recently restored, Pennington Cottage is a late nineteenth century Shingle Style frame structure, two and one-half stories high. It has a gambrel roof and a one-story porch that stretches across the principal facade (south side) and along portions of the east and west sides. As the style name implies, the house is entirely covered with dark wood shingles. The roof has recent asphalt shingles. The principal facade has a large double door entranceway with rectangular side-lights and transom. On the second floor is a pair of windows in the western half and a two-story bay window of three sides on the east portion. The third-story of the front has a five-part Palladian design window grouping consisting of four windows with a center oval fan wood panel and a louvered round arch top and keystone. The principal windows of the house have double-hung wooden sashes with multiple lights. The front porch has double turned columns and a baluster with small closely arranged balusters. A two-story, three bay stairwell projects from the west side.

The interior, with the classically influenced, natural trim characteristic of the style, has approximately four rooms per floor with a large entrance hall inside the main door. Like the exterior, the interior was sympathetically refurbished in recent years. The principal original fixtures of the bathrooms remain.

The house is structurally sound, in excellent condition, and basically unaltered.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Pennington Cottage, a late nineteenth century Shingle Style house, was built as a part of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's Deer Park Hotel complex. The B & O began developing Deer Park as a summer resort in the late 1870's with the construction of a large hotel (circa 1879). Later, a series of individual houses or cottages were erected along a semicircular drive on the hotel grounds. Some of the separate cottages were for the exclusive use of a particular family. Pennington Cottage was the summer home of Josias Pennington (18 -1929), a Baltimore architect.

Pennington and his partner, Ephram Baldwin, are noted for the restoration and addition to the old State House at Annapolis, Maryland. The firm did quite a bit of work for the B & O Railroad and is thought to have designed most of the buildings at the Deer Park Hotel.

Pennington purchased the property from the railroad in 1917 (Deed Book 74, p. 293). The hotel was closed in 1929 and most of the buildings were abandoned. Tradition says that the Pennington family never returned to Deer Park to live after about 1919. The property was sold for taxes in 1933 (Deed Book 105, p. 358). When the present owners purchased the property in 1963, the house was in drastic need of repair. The Faulkners initiated a restoration project, doing much of the work themselves.

Pennington Cottage is the only one of the few remaining hotel cottages to be restored. It contains numerous pieces of original furniture left in the house when it was abandoned by the Pennington family. The house is a prime example of what the private sector can do to preserve our heritage.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (If known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

This 'cottage' of the Deer Park Hotel is a duplicate of the one next door [G-27], in that it is a large Shingle Style structure with gambrel roof, bowed windows, etc. However, this cottage is in excellent condition. It still has its wide verandah wrapping around the front of the house and with its porch roof supported by elongated wood columns and with its balustrade railing. The five-part attic window and oval wood fan grouping mentioned in the description of G-27 are now seen clearly as part of a Palladian window design, complete with louvred, round-headed top and keystone. The transom and sidelights of the large double door have geometric lead tracery. The roofing and the brick base under the porch are new.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE (Include Personages, Dates, Events, Etc.)

One of the remaining cottages of the Deer Park Hotel, this is probably the best preserved and gives an indication of what the others looked like at the end of the last century. In addition to the historical associations evoked by the popular hotel and its famous patrons, this building is a good example of the Shingle Style in its own right (in fact, this house isn't unlike those by William Ralph Emerson, who's work was the feature of an exhibit at Harvard in May and June of 1969; catalogue by Cynthia Zaitzevsky). An almost uniquely American style, this good example is doubly important when considered as part of a group of similar houses.

Architectural Overview of Garrett County

length have tetrastyle Roman Ionic porticos in front of the second and third floors. The second-story windows are trimmed with Renaissance-style entablatures and heavy pediments supported on scroll brackets. The courthouse is undoubtedly the largest and best example of the Classical Revival in Garrett County.

Very different from the styles that preceded it is the Bungalow style, popular during the late 1910s and throughout the 1920s. The style moved east from its origins in California, where it had drawn its inspiration from the houses designed by Frank Lloyd Wright and Bernard Maybeck.<sup>30</sup> Whereas houses from the Victorian era were tall, vertical masses with high-peaked gables and decorative woodwork, Bungalow-style houses were predominantly horizontal and visually unified beneath low-pitched roofs with wide overhanging eaves. These houses were usually built in a combination of materials, commonly brick and wood, and often featured tall, narrow windows and square, tapered posts supporting the front porch.

Examples of the Bungalow style are legion in Garrett County, although they are more often found in small towns than in isolated rural areas. Some of the best examples are found in Kitzmiller, along East Main Street in Grantsville, in Friendsville where a few incorporate Spanish-Colonial features, and in Swanton, Loch Lynn, and Oakland.

The Burch House (G-IV-B-002) in Loch Lynn is a one-story frame house with accentuated horizontal features, low-pitched roofs with large overhanging eaves, and windows that taper at the top. It is completely covered with wood shingles. An equally complex disposition of roofs is seen on the house at 142 North Second Street (G-VI-A-017) in Oakland. Several other examples of the Bungalow style may be found in Oakland on Second Street, as well as on North Fourth Street and South Third Street.

RESORT ARCHITECTURE IN GARRETT COUNTY

Blessed with natural beauty and a healthful climate, in 1850 the Garrett County area known as "the Glades" lacked only dependable transportation and the necessary capital for development as a premier resort. Both needs were met by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Under the leadership of its far-sighted president, John W. Garrett, the B&O spent the next fifty years exploiting the scenic appeal of southern Garrett County. Garrett had advocated the building of resort hotels in Oakland as early as 1860,<sup>31</sup> wisely predicting the increase in prestige and profits that would accrue to the railroad from resorts it exclusively owned and operated. He also realized such resorts must appeal to the Gilded Age leisure class who had made a success of similar hotels elsewhere in the country.

The Deer Park and Oakland hotels, built in 1873 and 1876 respectively,<sup>32</sup> represented the fruition of Garrett's vision. Situated within easy access of the B&O's new railroad stations, both resorts benefitted from fast and frequent train service. The hotels themselves, designed by the B&O's favored architectural firm of Baldwin and Pennington,<sup>33</sup> provided the utmost in luxury under the illusion of a rustic mountain retreat. The Deer Park Hotel, laid out on a carefully landscaped property several miles east of Oakland, was particularly successful in combining the amenities normally found at fashionable metropolitan hotels with such "country" activities as swimming and tennis. The hotel, which was expanded several times during the next twenty years, was built in a version of the Swiss Alpine style with spacious verandas and numerous decorative towers and cupolas.

Shortly after one of the most extensive additions at Deer Park had been completed in 1882, a travel guide described the hotel as follows:

The main building at Deer Park has by the recent improvements been enlarged and the dining room increased to double its former capacity. Flanking either side of the hotel are the new annexes--the architecture of the Queen Anne order--and their exterior adding greatly to the ornamental attractiveness of the place. They are connected by light and graceful passage-ways covered overhead, and so arranged so as to be closed on all sides in inclement weather. In the west annex is a ball-room--one of the most spacious and best arranged to be found at any summer resort.<sup>34</sup>

The principal attractions of these hotels were the surrounding natural scenery and exclusive clientele, features the B&O tirelessly promoted for the next forty years.<sup>35</sup> A succession of wealthy visitors, among them several U.S. presidents, came to both Oakland and Deer Park. Many visitors built large and expensive summer houses of their own near the hotels. A number of these, including those built for the president and vice-president of the B&O, were also designed by the firm of Baldwin and Pennington.<sup>36</sup>

Despite their air of pseudo-rusticity and the fact that they were invariably referred to as "cottages," the houses at Deer Park were typical of those found at fashionable upper-class summer retreats elsewhere in the United States; their owners would hardly have demanded less. Following the tone set by the railroad hotels, the scale of these houses was often impressive--many towered three stories over high stone foundations. At the same time, the designers exhibited a keen awareness of the natural surroundings; buildings were invariably of frame construction with large open verandas and bay windows and were sited to take advantage of existing trees and other natural features.

The majority of these houses, built in the Queen Anne or Shingle styles, exhibit the asymmetrical plan and highly textured exterior so beloved of designers from this period. Typical of the style and sophistication that marked many of the houses in Deer Park is the Pennington Cottage (G-IV-B-006), built for and owned by the architect Josias Pennington.<sup>37</sup> Standing three-stories tall over a stone foundation, the house has a varied skyline, with numerous chimneys and varied roof shapes. Nevertheless the deliberate massing of elements forms a unified whole, an effect heightened by the extensive shingling of the exterior and the deep wraparound porch extending nearly halfway around the house. A particularly noteworthy feature of the facade is the Palladian window design on the attic story. Remarkably similar in appearance was the gambrel-roofed, Shingle-style Lord Cottage (G-IV-B-035) which once stood next door to the Pennington Cottage.

Although covered with modern asphalt siding, the Cleveland Cottage (G-IV-B-005) is another example of the large houses the B&O built near the Deer Park Hotel. It received considerable national attention when it was used by President Grover Cleveland and his wife, the former Frances Folsom, on their honeymoon at Deer Park in 1886. At that time, descriptions of the cottage were printed in several newspapers. One of these, written for the New York Times, described the house as follows:

The cottage is two-and-a-half-stories high, and is constructed in a style resembling the Queen Anne as much as anything. It is of wood and is painted grey, with dark red shutters. The roof can be seen through the trees from the railroad station, although another cottage intervenes. There is nothing pretentious or extraordinary about its appearance. There are seven rooms in the two stories, and servants' quarters above.<sup>38</sup>

The four other "cottages" surviving in Deer Park are almost as imaginative in appearance and are generally unaltered. One of these is a large, almost barnlike Cottage (G-IV-B-037) set on an unusually high foundation. It has numerous projections, including an oriel window on one facade. The second story is covered with fish-scale shingles; other decorative features include stained-glass window panes on the second story, a rising sun motif on the front gable, and half-timbering on two facades. Very similar in appearance is the three-story Cottage (G-IV-B-029) across the road. Nearby, a Cottage (G-IV-B-036) with a projecting polygonal bay and second-story porch is visually unified by the flaring eaves of the gable roof.

Although the cottages in Deer Park vary to a certain degree, important common characteristics set the group apart from houses found in other southern Garrett County resorts. Most notable is the large and imposing scale on which these houses were built; it is difficult to believe, for example, that the Cleveland Cottage contains only seven rooms. This scale, combined with the settings in high, isolated locations, gives each cottage an exclusive and self-contained appearance--not so surprising, given the social rank of the visitors who came to Deer Park. Despite the studied informality of these houses and the rural setting, there was little relaxation of social barriers in Deer Park society. The design of these cottages reflected this desire for exclusivity.

Similar in purpose, if not always in appearance, are the numerous summer houses that survive throughout the glades area of the county. Although not associated with either the B&O or its architects, these late-nineteenth-century houses owe a certain debt to the architecture of the railroad resorts. Built of frame, these houses exhibit many of the same features found in the cottages at Deer Park, including the wide and deep verandas, asymmetrical free-flowing room plans, and decorative gables.

Corunna (G-V-A-173), built in the 1880s for State Senator William McCullough Brown,<sup>39</sup> is a significant example of the Shingle- and Queen Anne-style "cottage" in Garrett County. It is a two-and-a-half-story, gable-front house with a steeply pitched roof that extends to the first-floor level on the east side. A particularly noteworthy feature of Corunna was the paint scheme of the exterior which once included brick red, yellow, slate blue, and pale green. These colors undoubtedly accentuated the varied materials and architectural elements of the exterior.

Glamorgan (G-IV-B-010), built in 1888, is an interesting example of Shingle style and board-and-batten construction; the latter method was once considered particularly appropriate for country houses and summer retreats. Decorative features of Glamorgan include a narrow two-story circular tower with conical roof, windows with upper sash of stained glass, fish-scale shingles accenting the gables, and decorative brackets and exposed-rafter ends.

Other notable summer houses in the Oakland-Deer Park area include Monte Vista (G-IV-C-072), the Chapin Mansion (G-IV-B-173), and Cornish Manor (G-IV-A-108). Cornish Manor actually predates the B&O resorts and was designed
